

Junot Gem Guest Comments

Mike and Marike – Canberra, Australia

21 January – 6 February 2011

We were delighted to be the first guests to have the opportunity to stay in Junot Gem. The apartment has a very pleasing and spacious layout. During our two-month sojourn in Paris we have stayed in three other PerfectlyParis apartments as we kept extending our stay. Each apartment has its own character and we compliment PerfectlyParis for consistently excellent selection of apartments it has to offer.

For us kitchens are especially important as we do most, if not all, of our own cooking. We found Junot Gem's well-equipped kitchen a delight. In fact, it's quite unique as far as apartments in Paris go, having stayed in a few. Also the apartment was very warm. The shower was also an excellent size. These two weeks were the last of a 3-month stay in France, one month in the South and the rest in Paris. We feel we know Paris and the metro system like the back of our hands now. Avenue Junot is a very pleasant street in Montmartre. Many of the locals have lived here for many years and it is an excellent real estate proposition.

Here you will not feel as though you are competing with other tourists. In the warmer months this area of Paris is almost over-run with tourists. Sacre Coeur being the main attraction here. We would highly recommend Junot Gem. It is a delightful apartment especially for a long stay. It's much like home for us.

Our experience over the past 2 months was made even more enjoyable with the excellent help and service provided by Gail and Preston. We will be returning to Paris again (how could one not?) in the near future as loyal clients of PerfectlyParis.

Joceylne and Bob – NSW Australia

26 March – 7 May 2011

A most enjoyable experience – our stay here has been great. A delightful apartment, light and very well equipped. Our thanks to Preston who was responsive to our request for extra tea towels and plastic containers. Paris is getting increasingly busy with the warmer months and whilst Sacre Coeur is packed with tourists, Avenue Junot stays relatively 'calme' with mostly locals about. Have really enjoyed walking around the locality.

One small suggestion: cushions for the dining chairs, just the flat types, the seats can be a bit hard after a while.

Many thanks again Preston and Gail.

Karen and Brian – Vancouver, BC, Canada

25 July 2011

It was wonderful living like a Parisian for two weeks instead of a typical tourist. Avenue Junot is a lovely flat – full of light and character. We found the bed very comfortable waking up refreshed. The flat is ideally situated – close to the metro, restaurants, shops and tourist spots while retaining a neighborhood feel.

We will recommend to our friends.

Thank you for a wonderful stay!